

THE FUNCTION AND OPPORTUNITIES OF WOMEN IN SOCIETY.

Munisa Karimova

*Teacher at the department of English philology,
Samarkand State Institute of Foreign Languages*

Ochilova Nilufar Jamshedovna

*2nd level student of the Samarkand State
Institute of Foreign Languages*

Annotation: This article provides information the role and chances of women in society and gives sufficient consideration to their way of living and then help them to realize importance of women's competence. It highlights how women were and were treated in contemporary times. Also, the article examines challenges such as gender discrimination, refusing for some accesses in a certain regions.

Key word: society, education, future and past, legal equality, developing Uzbekistan Introduction.

It is known to everyone that for the development and growth of a certain country, several measures and important social and political activities are carried out. Equality between human, their rights, opportunities are important for the development of this country and society, and the position of women in the community in which they occupy is inseparably connected with the history of human development. Many countries are taking several measures to empower women and provide them with more advantageous life in modern times.

LITERATURE REVIEW

Speaking from to the point of review of education, the role of women in the field of education is also very crucial. Because women contribute relatively more to education of others, the generation of them and the generation that will remain behind them can reveal secrets. There are no restrictions on women's education in our country. Even the state has a number of reliefs and supports for women from low-income families, single fathers or mothers, women with disabilities or those in need of protection. They also have the opportunity to get free education, to be accepted as a student on the basis of a grant, and to get a house from the state

There are several reasons for this, because according to statistics, women play a very important role for the next generation, an educated woman leaves an educated generation behind her and educates an educated generation. Furthermore, women will have the right to find his place and think independently. Looking back, it is clear that the part of women in history was very low and they were treated with contempt and their rights were found, discriminated against, but women have their function and ties in the development of the country, through the document it became clear to everyone what results were achieved after year

RESULTS

The rights and equality of women and their opportunities for a better life have been developed through some research and many years of work. For example, women in developing countries have risen to leadership positions in the state due to their awareness of their rights. One of these is the British kingdom, which was ruled by the Queen for several years. Another example is the country of Georgia. There are organizations in this country that protect women's rights, domestic violence, and shelter issues. Currently, 6 shelters and 7 crisis centers are operating in Georgia. The first of these, the "Resisting Violence" shelter, was created for the purpose of protecting women from various forms of violence and abuse and assigning responsibility. In addition, various enterprises and organizations are being created because the status of unemployed women can be improved by providing them with work. First, providing them with a job increases their income, gives them an opportunity to develop themselves and contribute to a new life. Secondly, their children will have the right to higher quality education, better school, better institute and create a prosperous future.

DISCUSSION

Despite these opportunities and innovations, women are still being discriminated and humiliated in certain regions. In India, women are allowed to study and work in government organizations, but their role and importance in society is very low. We can understand this from movies. In India, fewer girls than boys attend school, but some of the girls who do are forced to drop out due to family, financial problems, and lack of opportunities. In this country, the level of education of women is 70.3 percent and that of men is 84.7 percent, and it is clear that the level of literacy of women is much different from that of men, which means that their rights are not equal. Based on these data, it is understood that several things need to be done in order to improve the role of women in the society, and this is also observed in some other countries. In order to build a prosperous future, it is important for every country to improve the opportunities of its residents first

CONCLUSION. Women have always had a significant impact and change in all areas. Empowering women, reaching out to their marginalized groups, and overcoming issues such as discrimination and violence. it is possible to build a fair society. Women will always remain an integral part of society and family

REFERENCES:

1. Kholmominov is the son of Zakir, the daughter of Mominmirza Malikakhan Khahramon
2. Journal of Oriental Art and Culture, Koqon 2022
3. "Family, women and social life" magazine 2023
4. <https://www.undp.org/georgia/gender-quality>

